

Ambassadors of Doubt [Press Kit]

Biography

- Formed in Poole (UK), when Richard Stockdill recruited former bandmates Steve Taylor and Keith Nuttall to help turn his Prog-oriented demos into reality. Martin McKendrick completed the line-up in spring 2024.
- All veteran musicians, ranging from 59 to 65.
- Completed their debut album in six months, and then made promotional videos for two of the songs.
- Everything is produced in-house.
- Gathering material for their difficult second album.
- Planning to perform live, once real life allows it.

Background

Richard is a classically-trained pianist with a taste for folk instruments and synthesizers. A relatively recent convert to being in rock 'n' roll bands, he has composed and released music with Prog/Alt-Rock band Crimson Creatures and Ambient-Electro project Odd as Per Even (OPE).

Martin has been bassist and singer for various rock and metal bands since the late 80s. Having not become rich or famous, he turned his hand to songwriting. He has become more folksy with age, but is still an angry young man at heart.

Keith dodged stardom in obscure Indie bands through the 80s, took a long break, then dabbled in Electronica as Yammer in the 00s. After another long break, he combined his roles as guitarist-producer with Psych/Prog bands Lowly Man and Crimson Creatures.

Steve drummed in NWOBHM bands Distainers, Alien and Soldier in the 80s. His favourite phrase is: "We are surgeons of imprecision, engineers of uncertainty, we are ambassadors of doubt." It is rumoured that he receives a royalty every time someone says it.
